

CHAPTER V

CLOSING

This chapter provides a brief discussion of the whole content of the study. It covers the conclusion that describe the result of the study, and the suggestion.

A. CONCLUSION

Based on the study in SMA Negeri 4 palangka raya, Dayakese students motivation in learning English motivated both of intrinsic and extrinsic. Motivation as one of internal factors can only be activated by the students themselves, but the stimulus can be started from the outside that usually originates from the environment.

The result of calculation using Ms excel program and manual calculation showed that calculated value of students learning motivation is 76%. So Dayakese students learning motivation is high degree motivation.

Based on the result of the study before, there are several important points as follow :

1. The students who have high motivation in learning English able seen from the activity when teaching learning process, they will be more active than students who have lessmotivation.

2. The students motivation is not only come from themselves but also come from their environment too.
3. Dayakese students uses both of internal and external motivation.
4. Motivation is able to push someone to do something more to reach the goal.

B. Suggestion

Based on the result of this study, there were some suggestion would like recommended as follows :

1. For the students

The result of this study is expected give students' motivation and good input in English learning proccess. The motivation increase the students performance in English learning to achive the goal.

2. For the teacher

Based on the research the result of the study that showed the Dayakese students who learning English in SMA Negeri 4 Palangka Raya have highest motivation in learning English, but there is not all of students have high motivation to learn most of them have lessmotivation. The motivatin dayakeses students use is both of intrinsic and extrinsic motivation. It is recommended that teacher is able to increase some strategy in teaching learning proccess to improve the students learning motivation especially for learning english.

3. For next study

The study is to find the student motivation in learning English, and it was found the students have high motivation in learning English. This study is focused in Dayakese students who learning English at SMA Negeri 4 palangka Raya. The next study is recommended to conduct the study related the students motivation with the other ethnic.